The Latest Presidential Speculation

The American people and especially the active politicians can beat the world in sudden and unaccountable changes of popular sentiment. The hero of to day is forgotten to morrow, and a new object of admiration and applause takes his place who in turn must yield to the constant vacillation of the public mind. All prophecies as to the future are idle, for the shrewdest observer cannot foresee what strange influences based on the most unexpected events, may operate to produce results as novel as they are surprising. A few months ago, it was generally conceded by all parties and all factions, that Mr Lincoln would be re nominated and of course re elected. To doubt this almost implied a lack of common intelligence, as there seemed to be no possible way to defeat it. But recently, as we learn from "radical" eastern papers and from correspondence, adroit and active schemers have devised strong combinations having for their object the selection of some other candidate. The following letter which we quote from the Virginia Daily Union, will give our readers some idea of these plans. It is true that since it was written, Mr Chase has withdrawn his name, but we presume that will only cause the political managers to rally round some other favorite, who perhaps will be more available, on account of military reputation. That part of the letter, which refers to the time of holding the National Conventions, perhaps suggests the cause of the telegraphic report lately received in regard to the postponement of the Union Convention till September.

The prejudices of the correspondent are evidently with the intensely radical school but he doubtless represents the purposes and the wishes of those who agree with him upon the Presidential issue. Whether they are numerous enough—certainly they do not lack industry,—to accomplish their object, time only will show.

WASHINGTON CITY, February 25th, 1864

It began to be noticed about New Year's that expressions of confidence in the administration of Mr Lincoln were of frequent occurrence in the Legislatures of some of the States, accompanied with attempts to procure his renomination by those bodies. Some of the Union Leagues too, were acting as though in concert to accomplish this end. But to give the matter greater impetus, a lot of old political fossils, with Thurlow Weed as chief adviser and Simeon Draper as ostensible leader got their heads together in the latter part of January and issued a circular to all parts of the country, urging the people to meet in mass conventions on the 22d of February and ratify what appeared on the surface to be the judgment of the country, and make Mr Lincoln's renomination a matter of certainty, beyond the power of any political convention to set aside. The effect of this has been to set all shades of opposition actively to work to counteract the movement. The first formidable rebuke to the parasites was a threat from Mr Fremont that if Mr Lincoln should be nominated he would take the field as an independent candidate on a radical platform, for the purpose of defeating his election by the people.

This bold movement of the Pathfinder was assuming such formidable proportions that the friends of Secretary Chase deemed that it was time to move for their man and hence they formed a National Executive Committee, with Senator Pomeroy of Kansas at its head, who issued an address to those supposed to be sound on the Chase question and marked the circular issued "strictly private." This address, it will be seen by the subjoined introductory which prefaces it, and is its best explanation, fell into the hands of the Philistines. The friends of Mr Lincoln in attempting at so early a day to forestall the action of the people in selecting a candidate for the Presidency, complain with a very ill grace of early action on the part of Mr Chase's adherents notwithstanding they were themselves so far before hand that sufficient time already has elapsed to show the total failure of their plans. The idea of the 22d of February, which were to witness a spontaneous and overwhelming movement of the people for Mr Lincoln, have come and gone and with them about every prospect of the President for a re-election. But for the Chase circular, which the Lincoln fossils are stupidly giving a wide circulation, to the evident delight of the friends of the great Ohio financier.

NEW YORK, February 20 1864.

SIR. The "Union Lincoln Association of the State of New York, commend the enclosed circular as an evidence of early action on the part of the friends of Mr Chase.

The circular gives evidence of a determination to take the field without delay.

WASHINGTON, D C, February, 1864.

SIR, The movements recently made throughout the country to secure the re nomination of President Lincoln, render necessary some counteraction on the part of those unconditional friends of the Union, who differ from the policy of his administration.

So long as no efforts were made to forestall the political action of the people, it was both wise and patriotic for all true friends of the Government to devote their influence to the suppression of the rebellion. But when it becomes evident that party machinery and official influence are being used to secure the perpetuation of the present administration, those who conscientiously believe that the interests of the country and of freedom demand a change in favor of vigor and purity and nationality, have no choice but to appeal at once to the people before it shall be too late to secure a fair discussion of principles.

Those in behalf of whom this communication is made have thoughtfully surveyed the political field, and have arrived at the following conclusions:

1. That even were the re election of Mr Lincoln desirable, it is practically impossible against the union of influences which will oppose him.

2. That should he be re elected, his manifest tendency towards compromises and temporary expedients of policy will become stronger during a second term than it has been in the first and the cause of human liberty and the dignity and honor of the nation, suffer proportionately, while the war may continue to languish through his whole administration, till the public debt shall become a burden too great to be borne.

3. That the patronage of the Government, through the necessities of the war has been so rapidly increased, and to such an enormous extent, and so loosely placed as to render the application of the "one term" principle absolutely essential to the certain safety of our Republican institutions.

4. That we find united in Hon Salmon P Chase more of the qualities needed in a President during the next four years than are combined in any other available candidate, his record clear and unimpeachable showing him to be a statesman of rare ability, and an administrator of the very highest order, while his private character furnishes the surest obtainable guaranty of economy and purity in the management of public affairs.

5. [illegible] already [illegible] friends of Mr [illegible]

It has developed [illegible] Mr Chase [illegible] who would [illegible] present unorganized [illegible] its real strength [illegible] systematic and faithful effort to develop it to an extent sufficient to overcome all [illegible]

For these reasons the friends of Mr Chase have determined on measures which shall present his claims fairly and at once to the country. A Central Organization has been effected [illegible] effectually to promote [illegible] upon the basis [illegible] administration of the [illegible] during the first period of [illegible] extent [illegible] large [illegible] resources of the [illegible] rules of taxation [illegible] and private [illegible] the Republic before the world [illegible] American nation [illegible]

If these views meet your approval you are [illegible] to efficient aid by exerting yourself [illegible] ganization [illegible] section [illegible] corresponding with the Chairman of the National Executive Committee [illegible] or imparting information.

It was perceived by the friends of Mr Lincoln some time since that it would be better to have an early Convention, as it was readily seen that the people were indisposed to change the Chief Executive in the midst of a great war, and their efforts were bent to getting a call for the National Convention at as early a day as possible. This has been done to their partial satisfaction, the day being fixed on the 7th of June and the place Baltimore.

The assemblage of the Union Convention before that to be held by the Democrats at Chicago has entirely [illegible] Mr Lincoln's prospects of a renomination [illegible] the evidences are hourly accumulating that if he is nominated by the Baltimore Convention it will be with Conservative surroundings which will make the gradual emancipation of slavery the chief plank in its platform, hence the Chicago Convention will adopt a radical immediate emancipation policy, with General Fremont or Butler as their candidate and hope thereby and to most likely to carry off a large body of the old Republicans and the Douglas War Democrats so as to make up for the loss of the Copperheads, amongst them who will go over to the Lincoln conservatives. I look for an entire breaking up of parties as at present loosely constituted. Indeed the last November election in Missouri was the key note of the approaching Presidential contest. The Convention which is to meet at Baltimore on the 7th of June seeing the tendency of the War Democrats to a radical policy will be most sure to anticipate their action at Chicago and nominate a radical candidate of the most progressive character. If it should do this the election of its nominee is a matter of the most absolute certainty, but if the conservative fossils should get the control of that Convention and nominate Mr Lincoln or any other gentleman on a retrogressive platform with paralyzing influences to surround the incoming administration it will be swept out of existence at the November election as by a whirlwind.

The people are becoming awfully earnest in their determination to carry the nation through this fiery abyss of civil war so that the generations to come in after time may enjoy universal freedom. The true and tried friends of liberty are no longer impatient for speedy results, but have buckled on the armor of fortitude and hope, for a glorious eventuality.

Our Congressional Candidate

The State Journal, published at Eugene City, gives the following sketch, which will be interesting to our readers, many of whom may not have any acquaintance with our candidate for Congress:

"Mr Henderson is a native of Kentucky, from which State his father emigrated to the vicinity of Jefferson City, Mo, where he was educated and learned the printing business. In early manhood, he embraced the Christian faith, and entered the ministry in the Cumberland Presbyterian Church. For some time he published a literary periodical at Bowling Green, Mo. While thus engaged, he received an invitation or call to take the Pastoral charge of a congregation of his denomination in Washington county, Pa. He accepted and filled the duties of that station for about eight years, when, feeling that the position he occupied was not as favorable to that independence of thought and speech that his temperament demanded, he resigned his charge, and immigrated to Oregon in 1852, and located in Yamhill county, in the fall of that year. In the spring of 1854 Mr Henderson and G W Burnett, were nominated and ran on the Temperance Ticket canvassing, thoroughly, the county and although unsuccessful at the polls, the effects of that canvass are visible in that county to the present time. Soon after this, Mr Henderson was appointed by his Presbytery, Chairman of a Committee to draft a report—a plan for locating, and building up an institution of learning in the Willamette Valley, under the control and patronage of his church which resulted in the location of Columbia College at this place, which after being twice burned, failed. At the time of the location of this institution, Mr Henderson removed from Yamhill to this county for the purpose of patronizing and also sharing the advantages of the same.

Soon after his location in that county, he and B J Pengra, present Surveyor General, were candidates on the first Republican ticket in the county, and made a thorough canvass on the questions of that day. They were beaten of course the Democrats always having had a large majority in the county. The next year, Mr Henderson was nominated and run on the Republican ticket for School Superintendent, and such was his personal popularity in the county, that he beat his opponent, the regular nominee of the Democratic party, which party then had full sway. For several years past he has resided in this place for the purpose of schooling his children, at the same time preaching, when opportunities offered, what he believed to be the truth, with very little reference to opinions.

It is but just to say that Mr Henderson never sought the honorable position that he now occupies as nominee for Congress of the Union party of the State of Oregon, it literally sought him."

THE CONVENTION TO MORROW.—Some of our Democratic neighbors, who play on a harp of a thousand strings twisted into one, which they call slavery, complain that we suggested Col Kelly as their candidate and say we were mistaken—that they want Rev Joseph S Smith and propose to try him on for the sake of beating our candidate. We hope they will have a good time and we very much doubt whether a minister turned lawyer, can have any advantage over one who follows the work of his profession adding to it the laborious duties of a teacher. But let them come on with their parson the Rev Mr Smith is no match, when loyalty is considered for our minister. We cheerfully take that issue.

HUDSON BAY COMPANY.—It is said the Hudson Bay Company have changed their exclusive policy which has so long bound up the vast and fertile region under their charter and have thrown open 100,000,000 acres of fertile land to settlement.

LATER FROM THE EAST.

ST LOUIS, April 5.—Incomplete returns indicate the election of James S Thomas, Radical candidate for Mayor, by 2,000 majority. In the City Council the Radicals have from four to six majority.

At the Leavenworth election McDowell announced [illegible] elected by from six to eight hundred majority. After Mayor Anthony issued a proclamation closing the polls and calling on the citizens to assist him in preserving peace, which was disregarded and voting continued. Rioting was indulged in to a considerable extent, and several persons including Mayor Anthony were beaten with revolvers. The Democrat's special says the polls were seized by a mob [illegible] who took possession early in the morning and defied the city authorities. The military were called out, but assistance was refused by Gen Davis, who issued stringent orders that no soldiers at the Fort should [illegible] the city unless entitled to vote. The election [illegible] regarded and intense excitement exists. The best citizens denounce the election as a foul [illegible]

CINCINNATI, April 6.—At the election of city officers yesterday, about three fifths of the vote polled was Union, giving a majority of about 4,700.

Returns from the interior are meager but all received thus far show a Union majority except at Columbus, which the Democrats carry. The Union majority in Cleveland is 1,800; Dayton, 300.

ST JOSEPH, Mo, April 5.—Incomplete returns indicate the election of Wm R Renick, Radical, for Mayor, by 200 majority. In the Council there are seven Radicals and three Conservatives.

NEW HAVEN, April 5.—The entire State, with 18 towns to hear from, gives Buckingham 5,655 majority. The Unionists have six sevenths of the Senate and three fourths of the House.

Returns from the election of State officers in Rhode Island from nearly all the State, indicate the election of James Y Smith, Union candidate for Governor, by a small majority.

BALTIMORE, April 6.—The election of Delegates to the State Convention for amending the State Constitution took place to day. The vote in this city stands for Convention and emancipation, 9,011; against, 78. Returns thus far indicate a majority of not less than 10,000 for Convention.

WASHINGTON, April 6.—Arrangements are being made for investing Culpepper with a formidable cordon of fortifications, with the view of rendering it so at all points of operations.

Gen McDowell is about to leave for California, to command the Department of California, Oregon, etc.

The President will authorize the organization of ten new Volunteer Regiments there.

The following orders from the President has been issued by the War Department:

By direction of the President, the following changes and assignments are made in the Army Corps. Maj Gen P H Sheridan assumes command of cavalry corps of the Army of the Potomac. The 11th and 12th army Corps are consolidated, and will be called the 1st army corps, and Maj Gen Hooker is assigned to the command. Major General Gordon Granger is relieved from the command of the 4th army corps, and Major General Howard assigned in his stead. Major General Schofield is assigned to the command of the 23d army corps. Major General Slocum will report to Major General Sherman, commanding a division in Mississippi. Major General Stoneman will report to Major General Schofield, commanding the department of Ohio. Major General Granger will report by letter to the Adjutant General of army [illegible]

Orders have been issued announcing Horace Porter Aid de Camp to Lieut Gen Grant, with the rank of Lieut Col [illegible]. By order of E D Townsend, acting Adj Gen., that portion of this order relating to consolidation of the 11th and 12th corps has been amended so as to denominate the consolidation the 20th instead of the 1st corps. Gen Smith will command the troops in Gen Butler's department, and personally conduct military operations.

NEW YORK, April 4.—While Grant was at Fortress Monroe, preliminaries were satisfactorily arranged for an exchange of prisoners.

A special to the Tribune from Washington says, Gen Sickles accompanied by his personal staff left this morning for Cincinnati. He is charged with a special order from the President to make a tour of the territory reclaimed from the rebels with a view to observe the disposition of the people towards the Government. The General will make such suggestions to the President from time to time, for modification or special change of policy of the administration as they occur to him from his observations. At Cincinnati, gunboats from Admiral Porter's fleet will be placed at his disposal by which he will be conveyed to the principal points southwest. He will return via St Louis, calling at points in Federal occupation for which purpose an armed naval vessel will be assigned to him by Farragut. He is sanguine of success in restoring those people to allegiance who have been long held by Southern politics.

The protracted storm has swollen the Potomac to an alarming extent. Some apprehensions are entertained of the safety of war material and other property on the wharves at Georgetown, D C.

NEW YORK, April 8.—Collins has returned to Washington after nearly two years absence in Russia and England, engaged in negotiations for the right of way and aid to construct a telegraph to connect Europe and America via Behring's Straits. These negotiations having been brought to a satisfactory conclusion under favorable terms, he now awaits the final action. Congress has in view the co operation of our Government.

A dispatch from Louisville says that several of Forrest's officers have crossed the Ohio into Indiana and Illinois for the purpose of exciting the people to revolt. Forrest is on the way to Corinth with his troops. It is said that he will proceed thence with reinforcements to make a raid into middle Kentucky, with the expectation of getting a large number of recruits. Others say he will join Longstreet and push into Kentucky.

ALEXANDRIA (La) March 26.—The main body of Banks's army arrived this morning after 15 days march. The country through which his command passed, was entirely deserted by the male portion of the whites and blacks who went to Texas. Indications are that Banks' army will remain here some time. A whole column under Gen Smith has gone up the river to Shreveport with gunboats.

NEW ORLEANS, March 29.—The steamer J H Russell was burned on the 27th with a cargo of cotton. Total loss, $80,000. French brig Maurice F[illegible] from Havre to New Orleans was wrecked near Pass L'Outre, on the night of the 24th. After drifting about 24 hours she fell in with a pilot boat, and her passengers, 600 in number were saved, but the vessel and cargo were a total loss.

The rebel ram Tennessee was struck by a squall and sunk near Grant's Pass, on the 10th. She was a powerful vessel, her armor being six inches thick.

ALEXANDRIA (La) March 27.—The St Louis Democrat's Alexandria dispatch says a large amount of cotton was captured on Red river.

CAIRO, April 8.—The naval dispatch boat has arrived from Alexandria with 600 bales of cotton captured by our fleet.

PINE BLUFF (Ark) March 31.—The expedition to Mount Elder and Longview have returned with complete success. They burned a train of 35 wagons and captured 120 prisoners.

WASHINGTON, April 7.—Several hundred rebels have come in behind our forces on a raiding expedition. 150 Texans under Gen [illegible] attacked Rossville, five miles south of Clarksville, yesterday, burned 300 bales of Government cotton. Our troops drove them away killing several.

VICKSBURG, March 28.—The rebels seem to have taken up their old lines on the Big Black and Yazoo rivers.

CAIRO, April 6.—Grierson had a fight with a superior force on the 2d inst near Somerville. After skirmishing some time the rebels were reinforced and Grierson fell back leaving a few prisoners in the hands of the enemy.

Advices from Vicksburg report S D Lee and Loring at Canton. The rebels are repairing the railroad destroyed by Sherman.

A Visit to the Santiam Mines.

SCIO, April 8th, 1864.

EDITOR OREGONIAN:

Knowing you take a great interest in diffusing information in regard to the mineral wealth and advantages for miners in our own State, I send you a few lines in regard to the Santiam mines. There is already every indication that there will be a great rush there as soon as the rains cease a little. Parties are now here, and also at Salem, Albany and other places, anxiously waiting to go there. These mines were only discovered late last fall, and are situated about fifteen miles west of the head waters of the South fork of the Santiam river in the Cascade Mountains, and about seventy miles east of Salem and Albany. There are good wagon roads from both these places, as far as the settlements extend, which is about half way, on which stages will soon run to accommodate miners. Parties can have a choice of two routes, one by way of Mr Bryant's, which is the mountain road, though a little the nearest. The other, by way of Mr Marks up the Santiam river, which is a more level route. A force is now employed in making a good trail, so that machinery can be taken up to the mines which will be completed in about two weeks. The favorable opinion entertained last fall about the value of those mines, has been very much increased by the reports and specimens just been brought down by the workmen from the mines. They are, indeed, rich, and all that the most sanguine of the stock holders could expect. From a personal inspection, I do not hesitate to say that no Oregonian should leave his own State in search of gold mines, when those so rich and easy of access, are so near at home in the very heart of the State. Two companies have been regularly organized, and will give employment to hundreds of laborers. One is called the "Union Gold and Silver Mining Company," and the other, the "Santiam Gold and Silver Mining Company." The officers of both, are men of character and business habits. These companies respectively, have a large number of claims consolidated in them, with water and mill privileges, the titles to all of which have been perfected. They are both rich, and a fortune awaits the lucky stockholders who are able to hold their stock. But, of course, some of them are weak and will be forced to sell a part.

The Union Company has several now employed in sinking a shaft, though the snow and rain has prevented them from doing much yet. They have only dug about six feet deep, and in that distance the vein or lode has increased to the width of over three feet. The lode has been traced about three miles, to the Southeast, across the river, and seems to be as good as it is where the Union Company is at work. There are several distinct lodes, and both companies have claims on the same lodes at different places, also, dry diggings and water privileges.

Considering the advantages of wood and water, which are in abundance, and the close proximity to the settlements, where provisions and labor are so cheap, and the rich quality of the ore (according to the assays both in gold and silver—though it indicates that silver will predominate) it is not to be wondered that the stockholders think they have a "sure thing," and the small amount that can be got at, all in hints the confidence of those who hold it. I predict that many a poor person who has gone, or will go to the Boise or other mines at a distance, will wish before next fall that he had stayed here and gone to the Santiam.

As I hear of anything occurring of importance, I will let your readers know in season.

STATE PRISON STATISTICS.—About a m[illegible] ago we were shown through the various departments of the Oregon Penitentiary by Gardner the keeper, and expressed grati[illegible]tion at seeing it in such a healthy condit[illegible] At that time we were unable to procure financial statistics of the management, want of time, but this morning we have figures for the whole term, since the institu[illegible] passed into the hands of the State, and t[illegible] show a very fair footing, with a prospect the Penitentiary will soon become self sus[illegible]ing, at least if it does not yield a revenu[illegible] the State. For the month of November, 1[illegible] the receipts were $320 75 against an expen[illegible]ture of $2,183 13. This was the tim[illegible] change was made and very little was doing the prison, which was in a very low conditi[illegible] The convicts were dressed in new clothi[illegible] and materials were purchased to begin w[illegible] and the close account which Mr Shaw kept, as Warden, show the following resul[illegible] as they have been footed up at the close each quarter:

Quarter Ending	Receipts	Expenditures
February, 1863	$ 853 07	$2 186 87
May	2 164 26	2,513 05
August	2,648 87	2 514 83
November	1,796 48	2 513 23
February 1864	2,295 29	2 691 59
Total	$9,850 97	$12 618 67

The receipts for the month of March, j[illegible] closed amount to $1,027 34 against $982 expenditures. During this month one co[illegible]vict has been pardoned by the Governor, o[illegible] was released, and one died. Two new on[illegible] have been received. The sick list has be[illegible] more numerous in March than for any mon[illegible] during the entire time it has been under t[illegible] present management. There are thirty co[illegible]victs now in confinement.

DEPARTURE OF THE PANAMA.—The stea[illegible]ship Panama, H J Johnson Commande[illegible] left this port late last night for Victoria an[illegible] San Francisco carrying about 100 passengers and treasure as follows:

Wells Fargo & Co	$100 000 00
Ladd & Tilton	17,700 00
Allen & Lewis	1,800 00
Oregon Steam Navigation Co	1,364 77
Charles Barrot	750 00
Total	$121,614 77

The freight which she takes from this city amounts to 1,500 boxes [illegible] assorted apples, about twenty tons of bacon, and a general assortment of other freight.

TRIP TO VANCOUVER.—Governor Seymour and suite, of British Columbia, were among the passengers of the Panama, stopping in our city yesterday. In the afternoon the party [illegible] Leviathan, Capt Hoyt [illegible] the lea[illegible] gangway of the steam[illegible] guns, blankets, cork screws, [illegible] sufficient of refreshments, started [illegible] general survey of Ft Vancouver, [illegible] roundings. A good time was anticipated and no doubt they realized their anticipations.

SPLENDID.—Words cannot express the gratitude of our community for the magnificent weather which we are now enjoying. With it begins a new week, and with the week activity in all [illegible] branches of trade. The gardens of [illegible] are busily raked over with nimble f[illegible] the whose aspect of things is chang[illegible] understands her work, and huma[illegible] would not grumble at a cloudy sky, bu[illegible] will not confess their preference for [illegible] sunshine.

DISCHARGED.—[illegible] Smith, the colored "individual" who [illegible] greenbacks at par, without saying any[illegible] about it, and who received a sentence for larceny in consequence—was discharged yesterday, upon the recommendation of S[illegible] Ladd. His discharge will save the Co[illegible] an expense, as he might tarry in jail u[illegible] beard was grown, and then not be abl[illegible] fine. He was committed in default of payment of $150 and the costs of suit.

DELINQUENT TAX.—Persons who have not paid their city tax should remember that this is the last day for payment. The Collector makes his final return to the Council to morrow, and inasmuch as Mr McCoy, the present Collector, retires from the office upon the election of a successor, it seems no more than right that delinquents should call upon him and settle that he may receive his commission, justly due.

FINE HORSES SHIPPED.—Several horses were shipped on the steamer last night, among the number Messrs Sherlock & Bacon had three very fine animals. In attempting to get them on board a high spirited one concluded not to "walk the plank" and soused into the water, falling fully ten feet. After some splashing he was rescued, in a little cooler blood.

IN VOGUE AGAIN.—The obsolete custom of ladies wearing "bloomers," may be revived again by use of that costume. A lady appeared on the streets yesterday in the full habit, creating quite a sensation. All the store doors and windows were taken up by anxious gazers. We hope the ladies won't throw away their pretty "balmorals" for this ugly fashion.

COLLISION.—We are informed that on Saturday last the bark Samuel Merritt grounded in the vicinity of Astoria, and the bark Iwanowna, which was following her, came up with great force, colliding, and doing considerable damage to both vessels.

PREMIUM AWARDED.—At the meeting of the County Commissioners on Saturday last, held at the Court House, Messrs Burton & Piper were awarded $200 premium on a draft of the new Court House. The Commissioners have not yet adopted any of the plans offered.

THE SOCIABLE.—The ladies of the Presbyterian Church Society propose to give another of their really interesting Sociables this evening. A cordial invitation is extended to all, to attend.

THE LADIES will find Godey, Peterson, and other popular Magazines and Periodicals at the Franklin Book Store. Mr McCormick also has the latest files of newspapers, from every corner of the globe.

NEW STEAMER.—Arrangements are being perfected by Capt Turnbull for the speedy construction of a new steamer for the Vancouver trade. The materials are being collected for that purpose.

GOOD JOKE IN CONNECTION WITH THE CHASE CIRCULAR.—The Washington correspondent of the Chicago Tribune records the following

A certain Miss Carroll of Baltimore who in old Know Nothing times, wrote a book entitled "The Great American Battle" which was an attack on foreigners generally and Pope and Popery particularly and [illegible] some puff on such sincere Union men as Millard Fillmore, (who said the South ought to secede if Lincoln was elected!) Andrew Jackson Donelson John B B [illegible] etc has written a pamphlet grossly and personally abusive of Mr Lincoln Well this pamphlet has been published by the Copperheads together with an addenda containing articles also abusive of Mr Lincoln by Wilkes of the New York Spirit of the Times By some hook or crook the Copperheads got a large lot of this latter pamphlet mixed up with the Pomeroy circular, and had the copies neatly folded and pasted, and placed upon the anti-Lincoln Senators desks The Senators kept on franking the Pomeroy circular as they thought but upon one of the gentlemen opening an envelope, he found Miss Carroll's eloquent (?) production not the Pomeroy circular. Then there was hurrying to and fro, the Postoffice was overhauled, the telegraph put in requisition, etc It appears strange in the midst of one of the most terrible revolutions in the world's history, that men of sense and intelligence will allow themselves to be so egregiously fooled in this manner by the enemies of the country, who are so desperate and so at their wits end for means to defeat the Union party and help that of the rebels, that they will resort to the most dishonest tricks and foul measures to accomplish their purpose

Battle-Worn Banners.

[New York, January 2[illegible], 1864.]

I saw the soldiers come to-day
 From battle-field afar;
No conqueror rode before their way
 On his triumphal car;
But captains, like themselves, on foot,
 And banners sadly torn;
All grandly eloquent, though mute,
 In pride and glory borne.

Those banners, soiled with dust and smoke,
 And rent by shot and shell,
That through the serried phalanx broke—
 What terrors they could tell!
What tales of sudden pain and death
 In every cannon's boom,
When e'en the bravest held his breath
 And waited for his doom.

By hands of steel those flags were waved
 Above the carnage dire,
Almost destroyed, yet always saved,
 'Mid battle-clouds and fire.
Though down at times, still up they rose
 And kissed the breeze again,
Dread tokens to the rebel foes
 Of true and loyal men.

And here the true and loyal still
 Those famous banners bear;
The bugles wind, the fifes blow shrill,
 And clash the cymbals, where
With decimated ranks they come,
 And through the crowded street
March to the beating of the drum
 With firm though weary feet.

God bless the soldiers! cry the folk
 Whose cheers of welcome swell;
God bless the banners, black with smoke
 And torn by shot and shell!
They should be hung on sacred shrines,
 Baptized with grateful tears,
And live embalmed in poetry's lines
 Through all succeeding years.

No grander trophies could be brought
 By patriot sire to son,
Of glorious battles nobly fought,
 Brave deeds sublimely done.
And so to-day I chanced with pride
 And [illegible] joy to see
Those remnants from the bloody tide
 Of Victory!

Sunny Views of the South.

THE INSTITUTION SEEN THROUGH ICED LEMONADE AND CLARET.

I have read a great many books of travel in the South, and, I think, have generally discovered how they were written, and at what time of the day. Here is one for instance, a queer little thing, with scarcely a word of truth between the covers, praising all Southern society and even daring to laud slavery. Now, though the thing is a literary curiosity, from the fact that it is false from beginning to end, you and I, who have been through the mill, can guess very well when all that honest rhetoric was written. I will tell you my guest; but you must not let it go farther. It is one of those things the public must not know. It was just after dinner; it is a most prandial production; a quiet little clerical joke, which the public does not understand.

Listen to my conjecture in detail. The future author was met at the station by a fine, talkative old gentleman, who, at once, made him feel after a hard day's ride, that he had at last reached a haven of rest, where he might consider himself an honored guest. The racket of the cars was changed for the soft cushions of the carriage. His tired nerves were delicately titilated by the pleasant garrulity of the old gentleman, who mingled fact, fiction and witticism in his conversation. The house was reached. It was pleasantly surrounded by exquisitely fragrant orange trees, whose fresh blossoms filled the air with perfume, and, after a quiet cup of tea, the considerate host showed his weary guest to the chamber. Here, too, were flowers. How full of good feeling and refinement these southern people are! What distinguished manners?—the lofty bearing of a prince, and yet the utmost sauvity and geniality. What a difference between brick walls, hot and musty, and this ambrosial air laden with the fragrance of wild roses and geraniums.

Just then, when the poor guest was half disrobed, a timid knock was heard. 'Come in!' The door opened, and a curly-headed, pretty boy entered—he is one of the flowers of rhetoric belonging to the system,—bearing a little waiter with a pitcher of iced lemonade, with just enough claret in it to make it nectar. 'Massa sends dis, sa,' said the bashful little fellow.

How kind, how considerate! How remarkable these southern people are for the delicacy of their attentions! When the boy left the room, a thought entered the guest's head. He went to the South not merely for his health, but to see the institution; and here was a piece of it trotting about the house, and bringing him ice-water. This chance was not to be lost. Opening the door, he cried—'Come back, my child; I want to speak to you.' The little fellow, who had never been addressed in that way before, hesitated a moment, wondering if he was the one meant; and then entered the room again. 'My little boy,' said the guest, beginning his experience, and gently pinching the little slave's fat cheeks, 'are you happy?' 'Yes, massa,' the child said, of course. There was nothing else to say. 'Does your master treat you well, and do you have good things to eat, and a nice bed to lie on?' 'Yes, massa.' Then the boy was dismissed, and the first impression of slavery was received. If I had only been at his elbow, I would have asked him another question: 'Boy, where is your father?' 'Don't, sir,' he would have answered. 'Don't know, eh? Haven't you ever seen him or heard your mother talk about him?' 'No, massa,' he would have replied, wonderingly. Now, look at his skin; it is a very delicate olive! That boy never had any father! You see I have got my first impression of the institution. I got no iced lemonade with claret in it; but I think I got hold of a very ugly fact instead.

The next day, just before dinner, the saddled horses were at the door, and the guest trembled a little, no doubt, for he is not accustomed to the exercise; but there is no fear; for the beast is a blood horse, and as gentle as a kitten. The rider has nothing to do but to keep still, and the well-trained animal lopes along most elegantly. Let us keep up with the old man and the future author. Here are the fields; they stretch along two miles on the road, and are half or three-quarters of a mile deep. Behind them are the cypress-wood, extending indefinitely, sometimes six miles back to the lake. The affable old gentleman is an immense landed proprietor, fit to be a lord, and entirely unlike the small farmers of the North. At length, they reached the field where the hands were at work—fifty, seventy-five, a hundred of them—the men with nothing but pantaloons on, their backs shining in the sun; the woman a la Bloomer, their skirts tucked above their knees, and on their heads sometimes a piece of bonnet, again a straw hat, and still again a red and yellow bandanna.

"There," says the host jocularly, "is the institution. Now these boys and girls were all raised on this estate. I took care of most of them when they were curly-headed tots. A great many of them can read and write. Some have money in the bank. They have their little chapel, where they praise God every Sabbath. Sir, much as your Northern people say against us, we yet hold our slaves in deep regard. We are all one family. What I have, they have. They have plenty of food, and a good house. They are the most jovial set in the world, and could not I verily believe be hired to leave the estate. This, sir, is slavery; abolish it, and you throw these, my family, upon the cold charities of the world."

Now, that is certainly a very pretty thing to say. The guest believes every word of it. Why not? Will an affable old gentleman, who sends up to his chamber iced lemonade with claret in it, lie? The thought is unworthy. Our Northern fanatics have vilified the institution. These negroes are in far better condition than the poor whites of New England. They are always kindly cared for. Has not the host said so? Ah me! if only the wild abolitionists could sit on that saddle, and view this truly patriarchal scene, they would at once vote the Democratic ticket. These are not exactly the words the guest's thoughts would assume, if he chose to utter them; but only my interpretation of what was going on in his mind.

By the way, the future author did not notice the black boy, who all the while was standing close by his horse, and who heard every word of the above well delivered speech; and consequently he lost the queer expression of the fellow's face whenever the old gentleman became pathetic. You've seen those bank bills, which, for fear of being counterfeited, are printed deeply all over with one dollar, one dollar, one dollar? Well, that boy's face was all covered with characters which any one could read; and they were not quite complimentary to this affable old gentleman; so I shall not mention them here. Nor did the author notice the sharp voice of command with which the boy was ordered to the field; so he got his second impression. I did not notice those two queer little incidents, and got my second impression; and, if I should compare notes with the guest, he would be greatly surprised at the discrepancy in our opinions. He forgot, too, to go to the cabins after dark, and talk with the people, just to corroborate what the old gentleman said about his love for hands; and so didn't get any third impression at all. I did do that thing, and was surprised to find one of "the family" just from the whipping-house, with his back all cut up—a raw mass of flesh, made by a long raw hide lash; and there I found my third impression.

After a while, the guest's book was written. You and I know where to find the iced lemonade in page one, the blood saddle-horse in page two, and the affable garrulous old gentleman in all the rest of the book. Still, these things are to be kept from the public, who are left to wonder how it is possible for Mr. A. to go South in May, and Mr. B. to go South in June, and, going over the same ground, to write books,—the one saying that slavery is from Heaven, the other that it is from Hell. You and I know that it is simply because they don't see the same things. The one man sees the planter, and the other sees the plantation.—Whip, Hoe and Sword.

SOUND DOCTRINE.—In a discourse at the Broadway Church, New York City, on "the Sanctities of the Threshold," Rev. Dr. Chapin took occasion to condemn in vigorous language the prevalent notion and silly talk about the unhappiness of married life. He argued that unhappiness in that condition was the exception, and not the rule, and that the vast majority of young men and young women would be happier as well as better by entering into married life. He also declaimed against the present fashionable and extravagant style of living, and against the idea that young married couples must begin life in the same style maintained at home by their parents. The sermon was listened to by a very large congregation, though the above features of it were by no means its most eloquent thoughts.

A vender of hoops was recently extolling his wares in the presence of a customer's husband. "No lady should be without one of these skirts," said the storekeeper. "Well, of course not," dryly responded the husband, who was something of a wag, "she should be within it."

Grand Juries in Kansas have been abolished, Gov. Carney having approved the Act recently passed by the Legislature, entitled "An Act to abolish Grand Juries, and to provide for the trial of offences upon information."

DON'T BLAME HER.—A lady friend of ours was in Chicago recently, and was asked by her cousin how she liked the Balmoral stocking. "O, very well," was the reply. "Well, I don't," said the cousin, "nor will I wear them, either; I'll be hanged if I'll make a barber's pole of my leg for the sake of being fashionable!"

Where did Noah preserve honey bees during the flood? In the ark-hives of the old world, of course.

The tree from which the "old serpent" beguiled Mother Eve, is believed to have been a low cust tree.

FOR DISEASES OF THE

BLADDER, KIDNEYS, GRAVEL

AND

DROPSICAL SWELLINGS.

This Medicine increases the power of DIGESTION and excites the ABSORBENTS into healthy action, by which the WATERY or CALCEROUS depositions, and all UNNATURAL ENLARGEMENTS are reduced, as well as PAIN and INFLAMMATION, and is good for MEN, WOMEN OR CHILDREN.

HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT BUCHU

For Weakness arising from Excesses, Habits of Dissipation, Early Indiscretion or Abuse,

Horror of Disease,	Wakefulness,
Dimness of Vision,	Pain in the Back,
Universal Lassitude of the	Muscular System,
Hot Hands,	Flushing of the Body,
Dryness of the Skin,	Eruptions on the Face,

Pallid Countenance.

These symptom if allowed to go, which this medicine invariably removes, soon follows

Impotency, Fatuity, Epileptic Fits,

IN ONE OF WHICH THE PATIENT MAY EXPIRE.

Who can say that they are not frequently followed by these "direful diseases,"

"INSANITY AND CONSUMPTION."

Many are aware of the cause of their suffering, BUT NONE WILL CONFESS

THE RECORDS OF THE INSANE ASYLUMS,

And the melancholy deaths by Consumption bear ample witness to the truth of the assertion that

THE CONSTITUTION,

once affected by Organic Weakness,

Requires the Aid of Medicine,

to strengthen and invigorate the system, which invariably does.

A Trial will Convince the most Skeptical.

THOUSANDS UPON THOUSANDS

who have been the victims of Quacks

and who have paid heavy fees to be cured in a short time, have found they were deceived, and that the "POISON" has, by the use of "Powerful Astringents," been dried up in the system, to break out in a more aggravated form, and perhaps after marriage.
